Dr Christoph Bennemann is Partner at d fine, one of Europe's leading financial services consulting firms.

Since the beginning of his career in 1998, his consulting work has been focused on trade and risk management systems, along with the implementation of regulatory requirements from Cad 2 through to Solvency II. In this area he carried out a wide spectrum of projects, from commodity trading and bank risk management to large software implementations in Germany, Great Britain, Poland and the Netherlands. He has worked with various banks and insurers, as well as asset managers and hedge funds.

Dr Bennemann is author of numerous publications in the fields of financial mathematics, risk management and system integration. He has spoken at various conferences and conducted several in-house training programmes.

From 1990 to 1998 Dr Bennemann studied Physics and Business Management in Mainz and Glasgow. After finishing his PhD in 1998 he joined Arthur Andersen, within the "Financial and Commodity Risk Consulting (FCRC)" as a Consultant. He moved to d-fine GmbH in 2002.
